Return to Ithaca

Set foot on Ithaca, alive, and find the household still standing.

Where things stand

Ten years at Troy, then ten years trying to return. Seven of those years were spent on Ogygia. The raft has been built; the crossing and the return to Ithaca are still ahead.

The work that serves this goal

- Sail home from Troy: Budgeted one sailing season. Now in its tenth year, on its second vessel, with none of the original crew.
- Build a vessel that will hold: Twenty trees, four days, one adze, no help until it was offered. Decked, bulwarked, ballasted, and rigged with cloth she cut herself.
- Hold the estate: Not yours to run from here, and being run anyway by someone who has had no instructions for twenty years and has needed none.
- Bring the crew home: Six hundred out of Troy. Closed on day 1,095 with a count of zero and a survivor of one.

Where the records live

- [[people/_index]] — Everyone the voyage has met, owes or lost, by standing.
- [[journal/_index]] — One entry per day since Troy fell, numbered from that day.
- [[decisions/_index]] — Every choice that cost something, with what it cost.
- [[ithaca/_index]] — The household, the estate and the island, as far as news reaches.
- [[voyage/log]] — Every leg from Troy to Ogygia, and the ship's log entries kept on the way.

Related records

- [[voyage/_index]]
- [[voyage/ogygia/_index]]
- [[ithaca/estate]]
- [[crew/_index]]
- [[people/_index]]

- [[journal/_index]]
- [[decisions/_index]]
- [[ithaca/_index]]
- [[voyage/log]]